TO
ROBERT EARL GROSVENOR,
VISCOUNT BELGRAVE, BARON GROSVENOR,
&c. &c. &c.

THIS WORK

IS

MOST RESPECTFULLY AND GRATEFULLY INSCRIBED,

BY HIS LORDSHIP'S

OBEDIENT AND OBLIGED SERVANT,

JOHN YOUNG.

THE following Catalogue has been prepared under the auspices of the Noble Earl whose Pictures it describes ; and who has permitted Etchings to be executed from the various Subjects in his Splendid Collection. These Etchings are submitted to the public, in the hope that they may serve as an agreeable and interesting accompaniment to the Gallery, and a useful book of future reference.

It may perhaps have been expected that, on this occasion, a Catalogue Raisonné would be presented to the public, containing critical remarks on the merits of the respective Pictures ; but from that the writer has altogether abstained. Diffident of his own abilities for such an undertaking, he has resigned the direction of public taste to those whose talents and acquirements confer value and authority on their opinions ; and he has contented himself with collecting such well authenticated facts and circumstances relative to the Pictures, as appeared to him to be most useful and interesting ; subjoining, by way of Appendix, an account, alphabetically arranged, of the several Masters whose works are contained in the Grosvenor Gallery.

The basis of this Collection was laid by the late Earl Grosvenor, who, with great judgment, selected some of the best Pictures formerly in the possession of Lord Waldegrave, and Sir Luke Schaub ; to which he added some very fine works, purchased for him in Italy, by Mr. Dalton, then Keeper of His Majesty's Pictures. It is, however, still more creditable to his Lordship's liberality and discrimination, that he discovered and patronized the rising talent of the English School; and selected some of the best productions of West, Gainsborough, Wilson, and Stubbs, which will be found not merely to add to, but to adorn the present Collection.

Happily for the Fine Arts, the taste as well as the liberality of the Father, has descended to the present Earl; who, at almost unlimited prices, has enriched his Collection with some of the most valuable productions of the Italian, Dutch, and Flemish Schools. To the principal part of the Pictures of the late Marquis of Lansdowne, he has added the entire Collection of Welbore Ellis Agar, (purchased at the price of thirty thousand guineas); from the Collection of the Marquis de Santiago, at Madrid, the inestimable Picture of the Meeting of Jacob and Laban, by Murillo, particularly described by Cumberland in his "Anecdotes of eminent Painters in Spain:" the Woman taken in Adultery, by Titian, originally in the Barberini Gallery: the Gerrhard Douw, from the Duke of Præslin's cabinet: the Rembrandt, from the King of Sardinia; the Paul Potter, from Mr. Crawford, of Rotterdam; and lastly, from the Convent of Loeches, those chef d'œuvres of Rubens, which are, perhaps, the most splendid specimens in Europe of all that is grand and magnificent in Art.

THE DEATH OF GENERAL WOLFE.

This is the original Picture from which Woollett engraved his Print. His late Majesty ordered a duplicate Picture to be painted ; several others were afterwards executed for distinguished individuals, and the last remains in the possession of the family of the Artist.

The wounded Officer on the right of General Wolfe, is Major General Monckton, second in command, who was shot through the lungs, but who recovered, and lived for many years. The General is supported by Mr. Adair, the Surgeon, on his left, and on the right by his Aid-de-Camp, Captain Hervey Smyth. Immediately above the General is Colonel Barré ; and close to the Officer holding the Colours is Colonel Williamson. Captain Debbieg is introduced behind General Monckton ; and the Officer in the uniform of a native regiment, calling the attention of the General to the French colours, is the late Sir William Howe.

The right of the Picture exhibits a Grenadier of the General's own regiment, and his servant, lamenting his fate.

GAINSBOROUGH.

PORTRAIT OF MASTER BUTTALL,

Better known under the name of the Blue Boy.

This Picture was painted in consequence of a dispute between Gainsborough, Sir Joshua Reynolds, and several other Artists. The former having asserted that he thought the predominant colour in a Picture ought to be blue; the others were of opinion that it was not possible to produce a fine Picture on such a principle; and the Artist in consequence painted this Portrait as an illustration of his opinion. It was considered that he had proved his assertion; and his performance having excited great attention, and become a general theme of praise with the Artists of that day, tended much to enhance the reputation he had already acquired.

This Picture was purchased at Mr. Buttall's sale by Mr. Nesbit; it became afterwards the property of Mr. Hoppner, who disposed of it to Earl Grosvenor.

“ And they rose up early on the morrow, and offered burnt-offerings, and “ brought peace-offerings; and the people sat down to eat and to drink, and “ rose up to play.”—Exodus, Chap. 32. v. 6.

Sir Peter Lely, in giving the Artist a commission to paint this Picture, requested him to introduce as few figures as possible. This appears to have awakened in the mind of Claude a desire to wipe away the reproach cast upon him by his professional patron. To a greater number of figures than is generally met with in the Pictures of this Artist, he has given more than common interest; and so highly was it esteemed, that the offer of a handsome annuity, for the loan of the Picture, during her life, was made by a Lady to Mr. Agar.

THE MEETING OF ABRAHAM AND MELCHISEDEC.

“ And Melchisedec, King of Salem, brought forth bread and wine, and he was the priest of the Most High God.”—Genesis, ch. xiv. v. 18.

This is one of a series of six Pictures painted by order of Philip the Fourth of Spain, and presented to his Minister, the Duc d'Olivarez, to decorate his newly-built Convent at Loeches. These Pictures afterwards became the property of the Duke of Alva by inheritance; and this nobleman, quitting Madrid when the French army took possession of it in 1808, disposed of four of them, together with a valuable Picture by Raphael, to M. de Bourke, Minister from the Court of Denmark to Spain. They were added to this Collection in 1818.

The two remaining Pictures of the series are now in the Gallery of the Louvre.

From these Pictures, a most magnificent set of Tapestry was worked for the Court of Spain, which now forms one of the greatest ornaments of the King's Palace at Madrid.

LANDSCAPE: EVENING.

This and the Companion Picture, were esteemed as the most valuable in the Agar Collection, which was justly celebrated throughout Europe for containing eleven fine specimens of this Master; being only equalled, in this respect, by Mr. Coke's, at Holkham.

After the death of Mr. Agar, it was determined to bring the whole of his Collection to public sale; and the disposal of it was confided to an agent, not less distinguished for his fine taste and judgment, than for his honourable zeal in promoting the interests of those who consign property to his care. A considerable sensation was produced by the announcement of the sale. The Pictures had already been removed to Pall-mall; and notices of the intended auction having been transmitted to every part of the Continent, many persons willing to become purchasers had arrived, but only in time to learn, that the entire Collection was destined to add to the magnificence of Grosvenor House.

For this Picture and its Companion, the sum of eight thousand pounds was offered by a foreign dealer.

ST. BRUNO.

Founder of the Carthusian Order.

This Picture was formerly in the possession of Lord Bessborough, and is perhaps the only one in the Grosvenor Collection which can be considered as not agreeable, from the subject; it was selected by the present Earl as a good specimen of this scarce Master.

St. Bruno was born at Cologne, in 1030. In 1084 he went into voluntary retirement, with six companions, to a desert, which was assigned to him by the Bishop of Grenoble. They lived in separate cells, it being their practice to pass six days of the week in seclusion. One of their rules enjoined perpetual silence. This retirement continued for six years, when Pope Urban II. who had been Bruno's pupil, invited him to Rome, and pressed him to accept the Archbishoprick of Reggio.

St. Bruno declined the offer, and was permitted to retire to a wilderness, among the mountains of Calabria, where he settled in 1090, and died 1101.

THE ISRAELITES GATHERING THE MANNA.

This Picture was painted as a Companion to the ELISHA, in the Louvre.

“ And when the dew that lay was gone up, behold, upon the face of the wilderness there lay a small round thing, as small as the hoar frost on the ground.”

“ And when the children of Israel saw it, they said one to another, it is manna : for they wist not what it was. And Moses said unto them, this is the bread which the Lord hath given you to eat.”

“ And the children of Israel gathered some more, some less.”

Exodus, chap. 16. v. 14, 15, 17.

It may not be improper in this place, to notice the superior taste of the female with the basket on her head, for which Rubens is indebted to Raphael. His acquaintance with, and admiration of, the Cartoons is well known ; and it was through his influence that they were purchased by the Duke of Buckingham, for Charles the First.

Rubens has, in several of his Pictures, availed himself of other parts of the Cartoons, and particularly of the twisted columns, which, although possessing no beauty in themselves, give an appearance of splendour to this Picture ; and to the “ Gate of the Temple.”

THE MEETING OF JACOB AND LABAN.

This Picture formed the centre of a series painted by Murillo for the Marquis of Santiago. On the French army taking possession of Madrid, it was selected, with many other works of Art, by General Sebastiani, as part of the contributions levied on that occasion.

On Canvas. 8 ft. high. 10 ft. 1 in. wide,

Mr. Cumberland, in his "ANECDOTES OF EMINENT PAINTERS IN SPAIN," makes the following mention of these Pictures :

"The great historical paintings of the Life of Jacob, in the possession of the Marquis de Santiago, at Madrid, are the finest compositions which I have seen of Murillo, and was I to follow no better authority than the impression left on my feelings by those wonderful representations of nature, and put to make at once an unstudied choice, I am inclined to think I should take those canvases before any I have ever seen, one miracle of art alone excepted—the Venus of Titiano." See pages 101 and 102.

"There are many Pictures by Murillo in private hands throughout the kingdom, but of these the most valuable are in the hands of the Marquis de Santiago, at Madrid; they consist of five grand compositions, exhibiting the life of Jacob in the different periods of his history; these pictures were originally in the Collection of the Marquis of Villamanrique; the first design was to have had the life of David painted by Murillo, and the back-ground by Ignacio Iriarte, of Seville, who excelled in that branch of the art.

"Murillo desired Iriarte to paint the landscapes, and he would afterwards place the figures; Iriarte, on the other hand, contended for Murillo's painting the figures before he filled up the back-ground. To remedy this difficulty, Murillo executed the whole without Iriarte's assistance, taking Jacob's history instead of David's; and thus it came to pass, that these extraordinary Pictures remain a monument of Murillo's genius in every branch of the art, and a treasure truly inestimable in the possession of a family, which by the precaution of an absolute entail, has guarded against any future possibility of alienation." It is worthy of remark, that after a lapse of nearly two hundred years, the scenery remains in the state the Artist saw it; and the house with a turret in the distance, now the property of a friend of Mr. Crawford, is scrupulously preserved unaltered; exhibiting an uncommon instance of forbearance, and respect for a spot which promises to be immortalised by the fascinating pencil of Potter.

THE VIRGIN, AND SAINT ELIZABETH.

This celebrated Picture, which, on the Continent, was considered as the chef d'oeuvre of the master, was formerly in the collection of the King of Sardinia, and was added to this Gallery in 1812.

The date shews it to have been executed when the Artist was only thirty-four years of age, and before he had adopted his latter style.

The subject is taken from the description given by Saint Luke, of Mary's visit to Elizabeth, previous to the birth of our Saviour.

At the moment of Mary's Salutation, Elizabeth spoke out with a loud voice,

"BLESSED ART THOU AMONG WOMEN."

Of all the Flemish Painters this artist holds the most conspicuous rank. His Pictures have been equally the objects of admiration with his own countrymen, and with the connoisseurs of Italy; and they have always been sold at high prices. Many of the most celebrated collections boast the possession of even a moderate specimen, while this is esteemed among the finest of his works.

SALVATOR ROSA.

THE MARYS AT THE TOMB.

“ In the end of the Sabbath as it began to dawn, came Mary Magdalene, and the other Mary, to see the sepulchre.”

“ ————— The angel of the Lord descended from Heaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it.”

“ And the angel said unto the woman, fear not ye, for I know that ye seek Jesus which was crucified.”

“ He is not here : for he is risen, as he said : come, see the place where the Lord lay.”
